About Me

I am a UX-designer with a strong UXD qualification and experience in designing apps and websites from both educational and working life.

Through good UX practices and with a focus on good navigation, I have redesigned an e-commerce website for TINE Handel.

I am working with other designers, coders and back-end staff to identify user needs and redesign a webpage and other integrated technologies for Kvarteret in Bergen.

As a UX-Designer I have experience working through all areas of the design thinking process and using the information attained to make design decisions, helping the development of the final design solution.

I am competent in English and Norwegian.
